Although adolescence is generally perceived as a period of good health, many in this age group face poor health outcomes and establish unhealthy behaviors that follow them into adulthood. An adolescent’s ability to successfully navigate the transition to adulthood is influenced not only by behaviors and exposure to risk but also by demographic characteristics such as race/ethnicity, geography, family income, and health insurance status, among others. State policies that promote access to high quality services for all adolescents can mitigate the effects of some of these factors and help ensure that adolescents enter adulthood healthy, independent, and ready to thrive. This state profile provides data on Hawaii’s 101,357 adolescents age 12 to 18 and highlights state policy choices in health, mental health, violence and injury prevention, and youth development that improve access to and quality of services and promote the health and well-being of this age group.

DATA NOTES AND SOURCES

1. State data were calculated from the Annual Social and Economic Supplement (the March supplement) of the Current Population Survey from 2007, 2008, and 2009, representing information from calendar years 2006, 2007, and 2008. NCCP averaged three years of data because of small sample sizes in less populated states. The national data were calculated from the 2009 data, representing information from the previous calendar year.

2. Race/ethnicity estimates were excluded if the unweighted sample size in the denominator was less than 50.

5. Hawaii’s detention facility, which is not a correctional facility, is administered by the Family Court system. Children are placed in the facility for different reasons and, in many cases, may continue to be eligible for Medicaid/CHIP.

Personal communication with state agency: includes private letters, memos, some electronic communication (i.e. email, personal interviews, or telephone conversations).

14. Only if 14 or older. Physician may be able to inform parents.

English, Abigail; Bass, Lindsay; Boyle, Alison Dame; Eshragh, Felicia. 2010. State Minor Consent Laws: A Summary, 3rd Edition.
15. Only if 14 or older and the physician may be able to inform parents.

16. No explicit policy, but minors can generally consent if able to provide informed consent.

17. No explicit policy requiring parental consent.

18. No explicit policy, but minors can generally consent if able to provide informed consent.

33. All LPCs with an engine displacement greater than 50cc, brake horsepower greater than 2, or can attain speeds greater than 30 mph are covered by the motorcycle helmet law.

34. No statewide cell phone bans, but all of the state's counties have distracted driving ordinances.

40. Except household members.

41. Data not available.

Many states do not explicitly specify.
